Accommodation Guideline recommended for Inclusive Trainers

Persons with Locomotor Disability

Characteristics

Students with physical disabilities may experience limitations in one of the following ways:

- Writing
- Sitting at a standard desk or on the floor;
- Participating in activities where tables and instruments are difficult to access
- Movements within the class and within the school;
- Mobility in spaces that are not user friendly for wheelchair.

Guidelines for Trainers

1. Provide a supportive and welcoming environment by sensitizing other students /staff for creating a sense of responsibility in them.
2. Make the classroom accessible.
3. Sitting plan should include accommodating a Person using Wheelchair in the front row
4. Provide accessible seating arrangement. The height of the table should be accessible for Persons using wheelchair.
5. Make writers available for written work and for tests and exams if the candidate has difficulty in writing owing to upper limb dysfunction.
6. Give additional time for completing assignments/exams
7. Consider alternative to activities involving writing, drawing and other fine motor activities, such as sorting, threading, solving puzzles, etc. for persons whose upper limbs are affected
8. Free movement of learners within the class must be ensured by keeping the classroom environment clutter free. There should be accessible walking space for safe walking with no protruding objects or obstacles in the classroom/laboratory or corridors.
9. Students can use adapted brushes, modified pencils and thick markers that can be gripped easily, for drawing. Alternatively, the candidates can use stamping methods or paste cut outs. The books, papers, brushes etc. can be fixed on the table with the help of tape etc. so that they do not slip down.
10. For assessment, have students present the material orally or if required, with the help of a scribe. Use objective type, multiple type questions using yes/no or true/false answers
